REBUILDING AFTER DISASTER

Tell the world that we are going some way by mesquirose to rebuild," is the word that is sent "The declining price of goods, out from Puebla. Possibly none who does not create the interest it dream?" gave it a thought imagined that would if gasoline were something Phobio had received a death blow to drink titles that amount to anything have reisons for existence, they do not. The Democrats who were no my just happen. They grow because against going to war are now dethey have about them the elements termined to keep the country out at that promote growth. Had not Pueb peace lo occupied a strategic position in some respects, it would not have beaster, severe though it may be, will fraining not cause abandonment of them-

But it would be unwise were Pueblo to rebuild without taking stens to prevent a recurrence of the catastrophe That would invite a repetition. To proceed on the principle that since it never happened before any may never happen again. therefore any movement to protect the city from a like calamity would be useless, would not be the part of wisdom. It may not happen again, but caution would dictate that, should it happen, provision be made for avoiding its wrath. The Miami valley in Ohio was swept by a flood a few years ago that was unprecedented. It had never been so bad before, and may not be again, but millions of dollars have been expended in providing insurance that though the rains descend in torrents and even surpass the record, the waters will be carried away without doing damage to property or causing loss of life. It would be fatalistic for Pueblo not to take like steps Other cities have suffered greater catastrophes than did Pueblo and survived, but they took every precaution possible to avert the effects of a second like disaster. Then the effects of earthquakes may be guarded against, though not the quakes themselves. We cannot prevent floods, but we can lessen their effects by giving them plenty of room Doubtless Pueblo will arrange to give another flood room to expend itself without damaging property or taking life. That is the lesson of Pueblo's experience and she certainly should heed it.
